

---

Art Reference Library in New State Museum

The North Carolina Museum of Art, which opened its doors on April 6, has a small reference library which is available to anyone wishing to consult books, photographs, and other material on art. Because of the nature of the collection, books do not circulate. May Davis Hill, librarian and registrar of the Museum, welcomes North Carolina librarians to visit the new collection.

---